Accessible voting centers open for November 8 election

Snoqualmie, WA – The King County general election is on November 8, 2011. There are many candidates and measures for Snoqualmie residents to vote on including three City of Snoqualmie council positions. Voters may read more about these positions and other ballot measures on the King County Elections website at www.kingcounty.gov/elections.

Voters with disabilities have the opportunity to cast a private and independent ballot at an accessible voting center rather than using the "vote by mail" method. The equipment at these locations provides audio and visual technology that allows voters with limited vision and physical disabilities to vote independently.

Accessible voting centers are non-precinct based voting locations open to all that need accessibility services. Ballot drop boxes are also located at accessible voting centers for voters to securely return their mail-in ballot without the cost of postage.
